

"Wendy Potter holds music degrees from Western University and the University of Michigan, where she served on the Faculty as Lecturer in Piano Pedagogy. She is a long time resident in the Beaches Area of Toronto where she has had the privilege of running a home-based studio as both a teacher and freelance musician for many years. Encouragement and validation are at the heart of her interactions with young people. She is committed to clear and knowledge-based communication, while being inspired by her own students every day."
